WIDEN THE CIRCLE (AGAIN)

SECTION S-4 RETURNS TO ITS 1993-
2003 CONFIGURATION

PLUS - THE 2008
CHECKLIST

FROM THE EDITORS

David Weda, Publisher   Robert Mathis, Editor

Welcome to the first issue of 2009, which we are pretty sure will be the first of several. Since the last issue, named "Summer-ish 2008", stuff happened; therefore, no guarantees can be made. So....

What happened to the Fall issue?

Well, it is all Robert's fault. First, there was a Camporee in November that he ran for his district. Then, the laptop on which the Newsletters are written suffered a major hard drive crash. In technical terms, according to the technicians that worked on the computer, the problem is called "The Blue Screen of Death", rendering the drive useless without a very, VERY expensive restoration of "96 to 99% of all data" (as promised). But it is amazing as to how much 1-4% is that wasn't restored, and what files didn't survive. Lesson learned: back up your data!

The 2008 checklist. Well, the Winter issue is our annual look back at the previous year's issues, and look for possible trends for the following year. ArrowCorps5 led to the creation of several items, but not all lodges produced something. Chapters are continuing to be productive, with some chapters making items at the same pace as lodges just a few years ago.

As for council strips, what has been created in the last few years (the plethora of the fundraiser CSPs, also known as FO$ patches), could come to a screeching halt with the sudden slowdown in the national economy.

The Recession. This also goes for fundraising patches produced by OA lodges, the financial viability of councils, and long-term ownership of BSA properties. The shrinking membership in BSA units has led to a slow consolidation of councils in the North and Midwestern parts of the country in the last 10 years, that may accelerate as the recession leads to reduced philanthropy to the BSA.

At a secondary level, what will the economic slowdown do to the values of patch collections? Rare patches will continue to bring in the big bucks on eBay (a 326 R-2 recently sold for $1425, and a Suriacro R-1 sold for $10,000), and hard patches may come out in the market as sellers go looking for quick cash, sold to fewer bidders as individual priorities change, from patch collections to personal needs like mortgages.

Wewanoma Lodge 272 (Texas) holds the distinction of having the rarest "first flap", with a value that is between $18,000 and $28,000, depending upon condition and previous ownership. Three of the flaps were brought together at the recent Dallas Trade-O-Ree.

NEW ISSUES

> Leading the pack for new lodge emblems since the last issue was... Echokotee Lodge 200! The lodge's Camping Committee was given permission by the lodge chief to produce a set of four flaps to raise money for the Jimmy Horne Campership fund. The same patch, with four different borders (S-34, BLU bdr; S-35, GLD bdr; S-36, GRN bdr, S-37, RED bdr), and with 100 made of each border, sold for $10 each or a set for $40. And then there's the lodge NOAC contingent registration patch (X-23), shaped like a tractor. These are to be distributed at 1/ contingent member that pays the deposit, and another when the final payment is made.

> For hosting the 2008 Section S-4 Seminars & Council of Chiefs, Aal-Pa-Tah Lodge 237 created a flap (S-94) and a pocket dangle (X-59).

> O-Shot-Caw Lodge 265 produced their annual Lodge Executive Committee flap (S-126), a WHT monochromed version of their current flap design, with LEC verbage in SMY thread.

> Osceola Lodge 564 celebrated their 40th anniversary, with a special flap for the event (S-44). The design is inspired by the cover art of The Beatles' album, "Abbey Road".

Some of the remaining host items from the Section S-4S Conference finally came in, namely the chenille (C-3), neckerchief (N-12), jacket patch (J-3), and the host lodge belt buckle.

> Timuquan Lodge 340 has made their first host item for the 2009 Section S-4 Conference (S-55), available for those that gave at least six hours of service (for $2 each), or for outright sale of $10 each. A total of 350 were produced.

> Seminole Lodge 85 recently announced in their weekly e-mailing that their new flap is now available, a patch that glows in the dark.

> Tipisa 326's Woapalanne Chapter created a new pocket patch (X-4). Apparently, the "09" that is on the patch was dictated by the vendor, who is under the impression that all patches not shaped like flaps or CSPs must have a date on the emblem.

> The Section has a new neckerchief, the first under the S-4 designation, including the three southern Georgia lodges in the Section map. This was first available at the Section Seminars, along with the fundraiser jacket patch, and are also being sold on the 2009 Section Conference order form.

And yes, there are new council shoulder patches, from:

> North Florida Council, making two for their Winter Blast resident camp, one for attendees and another for the staff (SA-??, times 2). No other patches were created for the week, just CSPs.

> Gulf Stream Council has changed their logo to a design that is a generic BSA image that has no local flavor. A new CSP has been created with the new design (S-??), with an unconventional shape.

> Central Florida Council made a special SAP; 100 made) to mark the promotion of field director Chuck Brasfield to a Council Executive position in Flint River Council (Georgia). This goes along with another SAP, a "thank you" from the Council President (SA-??; 200 made).

THE RUMOR MILL

* For the 2009 Section Conference, host Timuquan Lodge 340 will produce two other flaps (one is restricted in quantity to lodge members, the other is not), and a pocket dangle (unrestricted).

For this year's National Conference, they are planning on making a NOAC flap, a double-sided pocket dangle, a jacket patch, and a chenille. These will have a design made in conjunction with the Tampa Bay Rays baseball team, the 2008 American League champions.

* Echokotee 200 is also planning for NOAC with a two piece set, a Founders' Day flap, and a contingent CSP. Efforts are being made to have the CSP commemorate the University of Florida Gators' national football championship.

NOTES & ASIDES

+ We often look upon the patches in our hands as a commemoration of history, or an event, or representation of membership, without consideration of the technology, or the manufacturing of the emblems we own. However, the problems of banned chemicals in the manufacturing processes of basic household goods, and the reaction by government agencies to assuage the public by enacting hasty legislation, has now led to changes that may be coming to future emblems. Among other things, the Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act (CPSIA) of 2008:

- banned phthalates from being used in consumer products (found in plastic backs and heat sealing on patches);
- required "lead-free" certification for all consumer products. This would have forced all imported and domestic products to have been certified by an outside agency to have been tested and found to be free of all lead content (forcing expensive testing for each order of emblems, no matter the quantity of the order);
- Under the CPSIA, products that are marketed to be used by children under the age of 12 years are to be considered as toys, and subject to rules dealing with that classification. The BSA had determined that since patches can be handled by children aged 12 and under, they fell into the category of "toys".

Fortunately, as of February, these new rules are on hold. The US Government announced that compliance with these new rules are suspended, and suspicion is that the bureaucrats found some of these rules as unenforceable. As a result, the BSA is not yet enforcing the new rules. For now.

+ What happens to the National Scout Jamboree after 2010? "Project Arrow", the name given to the search for the right site for the next 100 years, was supposed to identify and acquire the one location that would become the permanent home for the National Scout Jamboree, become a national center for training, and provide enough spectacular scenery to become a destination for year round camping, almost like a new high adventure area. The speculation was that the consulting company hired by the BSA had supposedly narrowed the list down to 15 possible sites, including rumors that Ten Mile River Scout Reservation may be among the possible locations under consideration. One location in western New York, near the Pennsylvania border, had been rejected in August, allegedly over the $25 million price tag. And according to Roy More's blog (<http://thescoutpatchauction.com/blogsite/2008/11/06/jamboree-2015-tell-me-its-not-so/>), the Jamboree may have ended up getting pushed all the way to 2015, which would conflict with the 100th anniversary of the Order of the Arrow.

On February 11, the BSA ended all speculation and announced that the decision would be, TWO locations. Goshen Scout Reservation in southwestern Virginia (operated by National Capitol Area Council) will become the permanent home of the Jamboree, thus keeping the event in Virginia. The Scouting Center/ High Adventure area will be located in eastern West Virginia, in Fayette and Raleigh counties. These two locations won out over the third finalist: Saline County, Arkansas.

+ While we tend to focus on Florida patch collecting, some stories are too interesting to ignore. So we can understand when extremely rare patches from Florida are brought together in one spot. But nothing like what took place at the Dallas Trade-O-Ree, held in January.

Wewanoma Lodge 272 (Texas) holds the distinction of having the rarest "first flap", with a value that is between $18,000 and $28,000, depending upon condition and previous ownership. So imagine the excitement created when three were brought together for a picture together, probably the first time that so many have been together since they were first distributed in 1950.

Big thanks for those that have helped to bring this issue together: Rick Obermeyer, Howard Gross, Jason Wolz, Ken Knaebel, Mike Daley, and Bob Wolz.
